

Handwritten Arabic script, likely a manuscript or document, featuring several lines of text written in a cursive style. The text is arranged vertically and includes various words and phrases, some of which are underlined or highlighted. The handwriting is dense and characteristic of classical Islamic calligraphy.